Building Leaders People Trust

This workshop is for leaders ready to embrace leading more from their identity and influence than lines of command and control.

Aspiring and emerging leaders will learn to:

- Capture an identity-based vision to create synergy - not conflict between work & home
- Master a proven formula for stronger execution of the right goals
- Develop a clear understanding of one's market value & how to make their greatest contribution
- Identify habits & mindsets that no longer serve them to double down on those that do

Attendees will experience an instantly applicable shift in their ability to:

- See priorities clearly, enjoy sharper focus, & become more effective – not just more productive
- Have a deeper sense of identity and confidence that builds trust with their team and peers
- Avoid burnout as they simplify to multiply - improving execution, balance, and personal fulfillment

WOW! - you have given me the tools I was searching for to move from the scatter-gun approach ... to a defined step-by-step strategy which will not only reduce my frustration, but be much more rewarding, both personally and financially. You really demystified the whole thing and made the path through the woods much less formidable and easier to follow!
